

When only passion matters

HCMC, March 24, 2010 – It now has been several years since Vuotsong established itself in the ship building field in Vietnam and it is rare within this competitive market to be able to diversify its activity like Vuotsong did. Beside its main focus that is the cruising boats, we have been able to expand our knowledge to motor yachts, sailing and even fishing boats. There is one reason why Vuotsong reached this stage of capacity; passion. If we did not have the passion for boats and navigation, Vuotsong would not be at this stage of recognition.

Today, we are proud of our perseverance, proud of the boats leaving the shipyard, proud of our client's pleasure sailing on these boats full of history and imbued with our will to always excel and most of all to keep doing this art that requires skills and styles.

At Vuotsong, we believe boats have a soul revealing from day to day through the dream of their shipowner, the hands of our artisans, the creativity and imagination of our architects and designers.

A simple dream or even a vision can lead to the birth of a boat. It is the fulfilment of a lifetime, the representation and a part of ourselves that one day will sail. Beyond turnovers, business strategies and financial analysis, it is in fact these notions – passion and perseverance that drive us.
